Real Estate Gift Certification & Hold Harmless

CHARITABLE REMAINDER TRUST

The gift of an interest in real estate to a charitable trust has important tax and other legal ramifications. Such gifts require special handling. To assist with the unique aspects of real estate gifts, prospective donors and their professional advisors must do their best to uncover and resolve all special handling issues before they become major problems. A key to uncovering many of these issues is the information about the property that can be gathered using a Renaissance Real Estate Gift Analysis Form (Form). Renaissance and Gift Administration Services, Inc. (Gift Administration) believe that the gathering and analysis of this information by a prospective donor's professional advisors is so important to consummating a safe and successful gift of realty that it will not agree to administer a charitable trust to which realty is being contributed until the form is completed, signed, and its information is reviewed by the prospective donor's attorney for any troublesome attributes to be resolved before the property can be contributed safely.

A given parcel of realty can possess attributes that make it unfit for contribution to a charitable trust in its present state. For this reason, contributions of real estate to a charitable trust should never be made without the prior advice and recommendation of independent legal counsel. Neither Renaissance Inc., nor any of its affiliated corporations, employees, or other persons claiming to represent us in any capacity can practice law for you. Any information, advice, or recommendations of any kind provided directly or indirectly to you by Renaissance Inc. or any of its affiliated companies, employees (or any persons claiming to represent us in any capacity) that could possibly be construed as legal or quasi-legal in nature must neither be relied nor acted upon without the prior review, advice and recommendation of independent legal counsel.
